Why Give to Campaign Emory

There's good reason Emory attracts the best faculty, students, researchers, and health care professionals. A top-ranked teaching and research institution with global partners and the largest health care system in Georgia, Emory has the courage to confront the most daunting questions: What can be done to eliminate disease, increase understanding, and bring peace, both personal and political? How can we use our knowledge and abilities, values and resources to make the world a better place? That's an important facet of Campaign Emory: the courage to lead. Your support of the University's priorities will fuel our commitment to the larger community, local and global.
